REVIEW JUNIOR SECTION

Dear Cousins:

How are the poems and essays on "Winter" coming along? Every Canadian boy and girl, who enjoys hiking and sliding, skating and skiing, and all the good times that are incidental to our invigorating cold weather, ought to have a whole lot to say about our winter. Send your poems and essays to Cousin David or Cousin Judith, 319 Bay Street, Toronto. Which is all for now. Not that I haven't more to say—because I always have—but because there are heaps of letters here that we must find room for to-day.

Au revoir, until next week. Let's have entries for our contest.

Cousin David.

MAIL BAG

December 27, 1923.

Dear Cousin Judith:

Here I am again. You say that you cannot remember me. I do not blame you. It is such a long time since I last wrote to you. Well, you see I was busy and couldn't find any time for writing, but I hope that from now on, I will be able to write quite often.

I was looking over the books and found a magazine dated May, 1855. There were some nice little stories in it and I am sending you one, entitled,

THE BRAVE RESCUE

Several years ago, in a western city, on the occasion of a fire at a large hotel, at the moment when the destruction of the building seemed inevitable, the inmates became alarmed and sought to escape, regardless of saving anything but their lives. The interior of the house was filled with dense smoke, which rendered objects scarcely discernible. Amidst the confusion and alarm, several firemen rushed into the burning building to render assistance to the bewildered inmates. A member of a popular company, being in the second storey, burst open the door of one of the sleeping apartments, and groping about, stumbled upon a cradle in which lay a little one, totally inconscious of the danger which threatened it.

Quick as thought the eager young member seized the cradle, the clothes, the baby and all, and rushed through the passage downstairs into the street, his imagination fired by the idea of having saved a human being, and restoring to the arms of an agonized mother her darling infant. As he leaped through the flames into the open air, he called lustily for the parents of the child. The admiring crowd, who cheered lustily as he passed, gathered around to congratulate him upon his gallant and successful effort.

Torches were now produced; the clothes were removed; when lo! out tumbled the biggest kind of a—rag baby!

The young fireman agreed to "treat the crowd to a chicken supper," if they would say nothing about the circumstance; but it "leaked out," as you see.

To my conception, the act was in every way as meritorious as if there had been a live infant in the cradle. He thought there was, and his exertions were to save it; and such as it was he did, and if it had been otherwise, the result would have been the same.

Hoping you and all my other cousins will enjoy the story, I am,

Your loving cousin,

J. S.

Dear J.S.:

You are wrong, because I do remember you quite well, and was hoping that you would return to the fold. Your story is a good one, but why not try to send

Sarah May's Doll Party

Sarah May wanted to give a party, but she was tired of the old-fashioned kind when everybody knew beforehand just what the games they were going to play and what they were going to do. So Sarah May and her mother put their heads together and when they had finished their planning Sarah May sat down at her little desk and on tiny, tiny sheets of note paper wrote these invitations to twelve of her little girl friends:

Have you a little doll in your house?
Won't you bring her over to my house
on Saturday
To meet my doll, Arabella Jane?
There will be other dolls here, too.

Now, can you imagine how excited those twelve little girls were when they received these unique invitations? Not one of them refused, and on Saturday afternoon, with their dollies dressed in their Sunday best, they arrived at Sarah May's house.

As the guests arrived, Sarah May and Arabella Jane met them at the nursery door and ushered them into the room, where the chairs were arranged in a circle. When everyone was seated, Sarah May's mother came in with a big basket filled with scraps of all kinds of materials. This she put in the middle of the circle and, giving each child a needle and a small spool and a few pins, told them to go ahead and fashion their dolls a gown out of the materials in the basket. A prize was given to the mother of the best dressed doll.

Then the children were invited to go down to the dining room where the table was prettily set. The ice cream was served in cups covered by a dolly dressed in crepe paper. The full skirt goes over the top of the cup and the doll stands upright. These were the pretty souvenirs that each child carried home and when they left the little girls agreed that Sarah May's Doll Party was one of the nicest they had ever been to.

My Best Friend

One summer afternoon in August my Cousin Eva and I, accompanied with Rover, our dog, went down to the seashore to play. We soon got tired of building castles on the sand, so we began to play with Eva's ball. Mistakingly I threw the ball into the river and Eva was after it in an instant.

She had not noticed the sign of "Danger, Quick Sand," which stood close by. But it was too late. She slipped and was soon hid from view. I could not swim, so all I did was to stand and scream for help.

Rover had not lost his wits and he was after her in an instant and dragged her out. Meanwhile I had succeeded in getting help from the cottagers nearby. Eva was unconscious but she was soon brought back to consciousness and later taken into a cottage nearby.

Eva was better in a few weeks and now our faithful Rover has a beautiful collar with his name and what he did for his heroism.

THE U.S. QUOTA BILL

Next in importance to the Presidential issue and Prohibition in the U.S.A. to-day looms the matter of Immigration. Never before have the reactionary anti immigration forces been so powerful. Their views are embodied in what is known as the 2 per cent. Johnson Quota Bill, which is now before Congress. This bill aims to limit the number of immigrants who may come into the United States to 2 per cent. of the nationalities resident in the United States and recorded in the 1890 census. It is frankly and admittedly a bill designed to cut down and limit the number of south-eastern European immigrants, since there were fewer people from this section of Europe in the United States in 1890 than there were in 1910, on which census the 3 per cent. quota bill was based. This provision would decidedly change the character of immigration by shutting out the southern and eastern Europeans, which means practically barring Italians, Greeks, Slavs, Jews and others from entering the U.S.A., and favoring almost exclusively immigrants of "Nordic stock."

This step is prompted, firstly, by the reactionary and stupid view of organized labor that immigrants from southern and eastern Europe cut down wages and have a lower standard of living. Secondly, it is motivated by the racial theorists, like Lothrop, Stoddard and Madison Grant, who maintain that the so-called "Nordic races" are superior in "blood" and intelligence to those races from southern and eastern Europe hence the former are more desirable for purposes of assimilation than the latter. Lastly, there is the silent fear of infections from Bolshevism which the immigrants from south-eastern Europe are supposed to harbor. For these reasons the restrictionists are not content to merely limit the quota to 2 per cent., but are advocating the registration of recent immigrants already resident in the United States; the selection and examination of immigrants in the countries of origin, these examinations to include not merely health and intelligence tests, but are also to cover the political activities of the prospective immigrant. It is being urged that no vises be issued unless the police authorities of the immigrant's residential city or district testify that he has not been convicted of a crime. In regard to intelligence, it is being further insisted that no immigrant should be admitted unless he possesses an intellectual capacity superior to the American average (?) whatever that may mean.

Such are to be the standards and norms that will control immigration into a country that

There is not a single contention brought forward by the restrictionists that will stand the acid test of scientific analysis. Prejudice and hatred of the "foreigner" are the real grounds on which stand the people who believe themselves to be descendants of those who came over on the Mayflower, and who are largely responsible for restrictive immigration. No attempt to cloak their ugly selfish natures will avail them. Before the bar of reason, science and humanity, they and their nefarious reactionary policies stand condemned.

It is not true, as organized labor maintains, that immigrants from southern and eastern Europe cut down wages because of a lower standard of living. Statistics which Dr. Isaac Hourwich has collected in his remarkable book on "Immigration and Labor," demonstrate clearly that immigrants are the most ready group to unionize and demand and command the standard wage. Accustomed to enduring hardships, they are the sturdiest in times of strikes and hold out longer and more faithfully than do the native-born. Their standard of living is not necessarily lower than that of other laborers. The immigrant does not compete with native-born labor because much of it is unskilled. They take the places of those who graduate out of the unskilled groups into the skilled classes. They and they alone do the "dirty work" so essential in modern industry which the native-born white-collared worker feels is "beneath him," and which he is physically unable to endure. It has been figured out that the immigrant contributes 85 per cent. of all the labor in the American slaughter and meat-packing industries, 70 per cent. of the bituminous coal miners, seven-eighths of the workers in the woollen mills, nine-tenths of those who labor in the cotton mills. The immigrants from south-eastern Europe make nine-twentieths of all the clothing produced. This applies principally to Jews. The immigrants make more than 50 per cent. of all the shoes, build four-fifths of all the furniture, make five-twentieths of the collars, cuffs and shirts, four-fifths of all the leather, and furnish 90 per cent. of those who dig our subways and tunnels and build our railroads. These immigrants will now practically be excluded from coming to the U.S.A.

Immigration has not increased the rate of unemployment but varies inversely with it. Immigration falls off during time of unemployment, and increases in times of economic prosperity. Immigration merely covers the shortage of labor which results from the excess of the demand over the supply. American industry is demanding unskilled labor to-day. How is it to get it excepting through immigration? It is a fact that there was a reduction of child labor in those States which had a large immigrant population, that there was a reduction of the work day, that work accidents were not the result of immigration. The relation of immigration to labor is purely an economic matter and not one that racial or religious bigots should be permitted to meddle in. It should be determined by economic experts. And these have argued and pleaded for a more generous immigration policy for the sake not of the immigrants but of American industry and prosperity.

On the question of racial superiority, it is the opinion of leading sociologists, and students of race, that the popular notion that the American people were at one time of almost purely English blood which has since 1820 been suffering dilution through foreign immigration has never been quite true to fact. As far back as the Colonial period, the United States was populated by the Dutch who settled New Amsterdam, by the Swedes who came to New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Delaware, by the French Huguenots who settled the Carolinas, the Germans who colonized Pennsylvania, the Scotch and Irish who went to Carolina and Georgia, and the Spanish who flourished in Florida and Texas and California. The population of the United States is the result of a racial intermixture. It is this intermixture which has made it great racially and culturally. To talk of the unassimilable character of the new immigrants is ignorant prattle and scientific nonsense. Our complaint is that the newcomer assimilates too rapidly and thereby loses the possibility of rendering a unique cultural contribution to the synthesis we call American culture which he could make if he retained his ethnic character for at least two or even three generations. As it is he throws away a rich spiritual heritage which he brings with him, and exchanges it for jazz, the dollar, the vulgarities and the tinsel of Main Street.

Furthermore, the suggestion to register immigrants already resident in the United States is merely a thin guise for introducing the well-known European espionage system so abhorrent to every liberty-loving person. What becomes of the much-vaunted freedom under such a system? The further attempt to have every prospective fighters for liberty, which struggle in the eyes of the police is regarded as a heinous crime. If there had been such a law in 1848, neither Carl Shurz or William Steinmetz would have been admitted, and were Jesus to seek entrance he might be excluded on the ground that He, too, was a rebel against Rome.

Secretary of State Hughes has already thrown a bomb into the camp of the Johnsons by insisting that treaty regulations between the United States and other countries make the plan of selection and examination on the other side quite impossible because it is contrary to the terms of the treaties. We do not discuss the temptations of bribery, graft and corruption of American officials which such a plan opens up, as well as the unfairness involved in not giving the immigrant a chance to plead his case and receive a hearing before a tribunal of competent judges such as the average American consul is not.

The new bill is un-American in every sense. It seeks to give preference to the Nordic type of immigrant as over against the southeastern European for no reason of real merit or ability excepting that of prejudice. The white immigrant, no matter where he comes from, who is sound in body and mind, who is willing to work and throw in his lot with the land of his adoption, is in every way an asset and in no sense a liability. It is exceedingly unfortunate that those who support Congressman Johnson and his bill have lost all sense of what the United States really is. Instead of regarding it as a land or a mere geographical expression, it is well to remind tham that the United States is a political institution based on liberty and a spiritual ideal. As Israel Zangwill said, it behooves the immigrant to restore to America her soul.

The Jewish Morning Journal and the Jewish Daily Forward of New York City both accept Ford advertising. So, through their business offices, they urge Jews to buy more Ford cars and thereby contribute their bit, if indirectly, to a Judomaniac's pogrom fund. This fund fathers the Dearborn Independent, which is as much a Ford product as the car. These papers don't need to put their editorial seal of approval on what Ford says and does. They just close their eyes, lay their trusting hands in those of their advertising departments and keep good company with the Toronto Yiddish paper.

American writers, who are trying feverishly to prove how superior the Nordics are over the south Europeans in these days of immigration zoras, have been joined by Augusta E. Stetson, self-advertised successor to Mother Eddy in Christian Science. In a full-page advertisement in the New York Times she says that "all that is foreign to the spirit of Nordic ideals first implanted here by the discoverer of America—the Norseman, Leif, son of Eric, or America, in whose honor our country was named 'America'; all that is anti-Christian is to be purged out of America, and our true character as a Christian nation is to be redeemed through Christ and them that are Christ's." Evidently Mother Stetson would renovate America of Jews, with the exception, of course, of those who are now Christian Scientists and as such are entitled to the exemptions of "them that are Christ's."

The Isaac Elchanan Theological Seminary of New York, which wants to raise five millions of dollars, would do well to stop and look at what happened to the less orthodox Jewish Theological Seminary campaign recently in Chicago. There, at the dinner which opened the drive, it was impossible, even with Louis Marshall of New York present and appealing, to get more than $16,000 of a quota of $100,000, so that Julius Rosenwald was finally permitted to offer $60,000 if Chicago would give the rest. Although Chicago has a large orthodox element, money for a campaign of this magnitude must come from Reform Jews kindly disposed because that is where, as usual, most of the big Jewish money in the States is.

If the appeal of the Jewish Theological Seminary evoked such feeble response, what will be the answer to a drive for funds with which to impose upon American Jews a Jewish parochial school system? For that is just what the Isaac Elchanan Theological Seminary wants to do with the five million dollars it wants to collect. It requires no prophet to predict the failure of a proposition to "establish a Jewish college and also branches of the Seminary, where the Jewish youth of America will be given a combined Jewish and elementary and high school education," because that is just the thing influential, progressive Jews in the States don't want to encourage. Besides, if the "branches" were established and teachers engaged, which is fantastic, really, we feel certain that the Jewish youth of America would not only be disinterested but excitedly opposed to segregation in education. With so much to be done with money, if there were only plenty of it, the Seminary seems to have picked out a project not only hopeless but absurd.

A great deal of printer's ink is being lavished on two Jewish gentlemen by us of the English-Jewish press. One is Rabbi J. Max Weis, of New York, and the other is Edward Frensdorf, of Hudson, Mich.; Rabbi Weis for saying that the Day of Atonement makes for hypocrisy and ought to be abolished, and Frensdorf for favoring Ford's candidacy for president and excusing his wild attitude toward Jews. These men have one thing in common, the fact that they both made ill-advised remarks. The difference is that Rabbi Weis rushed in where angels fear to tread and Mr. Frensdorf where angels wouldn't want to, ever.

JOSEF LHEVINNE SOLOIST AT MENDELSSOHN CONCERT

The subscription lists for the Mendelssohn Choir concerts are now open at Massey Hall and the music stores or with members of the chorus. The concerts this year take place on February 20, 21, 22 and 23, to be followed by a brief tour in the United States the first week in March.

In response to numerous requests, the first concert will be of unaccompanied works, a programme of great value and beauty having been arranged by Dr. Fricker for this concert. The assisting artists will be Josef Lhevinne, the great Russian pianist. The brilliant choral numbers will be motets by Palestrina and Byrde and Dr. S. S. Wesley, a beautiful selection, the "The Three Birds of Paradise" by Ravel, two new numbers for ladies' voices by Gustav Holst, and two for men's voices by Percy Fletcher. Of special interest will be an arrangement of "Annie Laurie," recently made for the Mendelssohn Choir by Geoffrey O'Hara. Brahms' famous "Songs of Love" waltzes for chorus, and two pianos, and the "Farewell Carnival" of Rimsky Korsakoff will complete this brilliant programme.

On Thursday evening, February 21, will be performed Beethoven's Choral Symphony, D Minor No. 9, preceded by a Bach Motet and Brahms' "Song of Destiny." The quartette of soloists will be Marie Tiffany, soprano, Elizabeth Bonner, contralto; Charles Stratton, tenor, and John Barclay, bass, who will sing with the Choir in the concluding movement of the Symphony.

For the Friday evening concert the Symphony will be Mozart's G Minor, and the unaccompanied choral work two sixteenth century madrigals by Orlando Gibbons and Benet and Stanford's "Bluebird." The concerted work will be the principal numbers from Bach's great B Minor Mass, the assistant soloists being Miss Tiffany and Mr. Barclay.

For the orchestral matinee on Saturday afternoon, Mr. Stokowski has selected as his principal numbers Tschaikowski's Fourth Symphony, and Rimsky-Korsakoff's "Scheherazada," some shorter numbers to be announced later.

For the concluding concert of the series on Saturday evening, Dr. Fricker has chosen several works not heretofore heard in Toronto, chief of which are Sir Hubert Parry's "Jerusalem," and Arnold Bax's "Our Fatherland," both for choir and orchestra, the "Rig Veda" choruses for ladies' voices by Holst, and, to conclude the programme, Scenes I and II from "Boris Godounow" by Moussorgsky, and dances from "Prince Igor" by Borodin. The assistant soloist at this concert will be Mr. Barclay, and the orchestral numbers will be "Don Juan" (Strauss) and "l'Oiseau de Feu" (Stravinsky).

SHEA'S THEATRE

"The Girl with the Dancing Eyes," chic Odette Myrtil, heads a great all-feature bill at Shea's Theatre next week. Odette Myrtil is making her first Canadian tour. Mlle. Marguerite and Frank Gill in "A Little Music Box of Their Own," are dance stars of the Music Box Revue. They were the dancers featured with last season's Music Box Revue.

Blackface comedians usually present skits. Lou Clayton and Cliff Edwards sing, dance and patter but their vehicle, "Please Stop," is far more than a skit, it is frequently termed a blackface classic.

Don Alphonso Zelaya has music, wit and philosophy. He is an authority on psychology, new thought unity, and theosophy. Ray Fern and Maree in "A Vaudeville Diversion" is the stamp on the act offered by the well-known comedians, Ray Fern and his talented partner, Maree. "You'll Be Surprised" is the title Wayne Beeman and Alma Grace have given their camouflage skating act, and you will be . Shea's News Review completes the bill.

JEWS PROTEST IMMIGRATION RESTRICTIONS

Italian Turns Against His Own People

Washington (J.T.A.).—Louis Marshall, Dr. Stephen S. Wise, Gedalia Bublic, William Edlin and Jacob Fishman appeared before the House Immigration Committee yesterday, and severely protested against the new Johnson Immigration Bill which is now being considered.

Louis Marshall declared that immigration restriction is the ideology of the Ku Klux Klan, because the Klan wants only white, Protestant and Anglo-Saxon immigrants to come to this country, and the proposition to base the immigration quotas on the 1890 census coincides with the Klan principles. The new law would reduce by nine-tenths the immigration from southern and eastern Europe, Mr. Marshall said. He also protested against the proposition to fingerprint immigrants and proposed that immigration certificates should be used instead. He reminded the committee of the great achievements of immigrants, and pointed especially to Marconi and Steinmetz. When asked what he thought of selective immigration, Mr. Marshall replied that the present law is already selective because it admits only persons physically, morally and mentally fit. He opposed the examination of immigrants abroad, he said, because it would create a number of American czars, and it would be dangerous to hand the decision about the admission of immigrants to officials abroad.

After Mr. Marshall, Mr. Joseph Kanterowitz spoke in behalf of the Independent Order Bnai Brith.

Jacob Fishman emphasized the injustice that will be done to immigrants from certain countries, and especially the Jews, if Mr. Johnson's immigration proposal is accepted. Dr. Wise ridiculed the contention that the Nordic race is superior, saying that the Bible did not originate with the Nordic race, but with an Asiatic race, and that the Anglo-Saxon laws are based on the Jewish Bible. At this, Chairman Johnson declared that neither he nor any other member of the Immigration Committee was race-prejudiced. Dr. Wise replied he had no doubt but that the Bill tended to discriminate against certain races. William Edlin, speaking on behalf of the Association of Foreign Language Newspapers, said the Bill was against true democracy, and the spirit of the founders of the United States. He said that the members of the Committee should come to New York and see for themselves the achievements of immigrants who built the biggest city in the world. Gedalia Bublic was the last speaker. He declared the Bill had anti-Semitic tendencies which aimed at Jewish immigrants from Poland, Russia, Galicia and Roumania. He quoted excerpts of the annual report of Secretary of Labour Davis, and Commissioner General Husband which proved his contention.

At Immigration Committee hearings, which were continued this morning at ten o'clock, no Jewish witnesses were heard up to adjournment at one o'clock. John L. Bernstein, of the Hias, was scheduled to testify this afternoon, when important testimony about charges against the Hias are expected.

Caroli Gigliotti, editor of a Chicago Italian weekly, created a sensation as the first speaker this morning, when, instead of speaking for immigration, as an Italian journalist would ordinarily be expected to, he launched a tirade against his own people posing as 100 per cent. Americans, advocating further restrictions on immigration. He said many Italians are enemies of this country, and many editorials in the Italian newspapers were traitorous to America. He said his weekly is a patriotic publication with 25,000 readers, representing the better element of Italian residents.

Congressmen Sabath and Dickstein both cross-examined Gigliotti. His answers were very evasive, and he failed to produce the alleged traitorous editorials when they were demanded, saying he would file clippings later. His talk was very disconnected throughout, and he did not make much of an impression. Nevertheless, his statements were undoubtedly very injurious, and will, no doubt, be used with effect by enemies of immigration. Gigliotti advocated a quota system exclusively restricted to the number of aliens who served in the American army in the recent war.

The second witness was another Italian, who made a far different speech, appealing for a liberal immigration law. He was Judge Salvatore Cotillo, of the Supreme Court of New York City. He was very impressive, recalling the Italian contribution to this government. America, he said, can only demonstrate its gratitude for this Italian patriotism by striking out the insult of the 1890 census in the Johnson Bill which is being at present considered.

Cotillo made a profound impression, concluding by emphatically urging that no new legislation should be enacted until a thorough investigation is made, and that the new law should not be rushed.

AMERICANS PRESENT NORDAU ADDRESSES TO JERUSALEM LIBRARY

New York (J.T.A.).—The manuscript of the non-Zionist Congress addresses of Dr. Max Nordau was presented to Dr. Heinrich Loewe, of the Hebrew National Library of Jerusalem, at a meeting of the Committee for the Hebrew National Library on Monday.

The manuscript was purchased from Mme. Nordau by a group of American Zionists, including Nathan Straus, Mrs. Mary Fels, Dr. Stephen S. Wise, Julius Simon, Solomon Rosenbloom, with the object in view of having them later deposited in the Jerusalem Library. The presence of Dr. Loewe here in the interests of the Library was taken advantage of in order to make the presentation.

Those at the meeting Monday, included, besides Dr. Loewe, Professor Mark, Librarian of the Jewish Theological Seminary, Dr. Solomon

RINGLEADER OF BOMB OUTRAGE ARRESTED

Hejjas in Hiding

Budapest (J.T.A.).—Johann Sagy, the ringleader of the band who perpetrated the Chonograd bomb outrage, in which many Jews were killed, and others seriously wounded, was arrested Saturday, on the outskirts of Chonograd. The police found letters from Captain Hejjas, one of the leaders of the anti-Semitic organizations, the "Awakening Magyars," in his possession. Sagy was taken to Szegedin where those already arrested have been confined.

Hejjas, who is suspected of having participated in the disturbance, when cross-examined last Saturday by Doctor Ketenyi, acting Chief of Police, denied any knowledge of the bomb plot though he admitted knowing Johann Sagy and former Lieutenant Piroska, who was expelled from the army last week, and who is now under arrest for his participation in the bomb plot. Hejjas lauded himself as an idealist whose ideals are being sorely misunderstood and abused. His release from custody aroused much indignation in democratic circles who are convinced of his guilt. Hejjas disappeared from Budapest later in the day. The authorities have been unable to learn his whereabouts.

As a result of the appeal sent out by Stefanie Feber, sister of Alexander Wolf, who was killed by the explosion, to the many Jewish organizations, a movement is afoot to cancel all balls for 1924. The movement is looked on by favour by the rabbis throughout the country who have taken as their watchword "no Jewish balls in 1924." The author of this appeal was herself among those seriously wounded in the affray.

UNITED STATES SECOND GREATEST IMPORTER FROM PALESTINE; THIRD GREATEST EXPORTER

Jerusalem (J.T.A. by mail).—The United States ranks second among the countries importing from Palestine during the third quarter of 1923, having imported goods to the value of £68,980. Egypt heads the list with a total of £191,823. The total value of the goods exported from Palestine during the third quarter of 1923 amounted to £411,552 as against £189,894 of the corresponding period last year. The total value of goods imported by Palestine during this period amounts to £1,251,713 during the third quarter of 1922.

Great Britain is the greatest exporter to Palestine, Syria ranking second and the United States third.

A comparison of these totals show the steady and continuous progress of Palestine in commerce. Whereas, the amount imported by Palestine has decreased from £1,251,713 to £1,077,777, the amount exported has increased from £189,894 to £411,552.

Trade between Palestine and Syria has increased considerably in the past year, due principally to the shortage of cereals in the Transjordania.

The correspondent of the Jewish Telegraphic Agency learns that the work of establishing the commercial centre in Jerusalem (Birkath-Mamillah Street) will be commenced shortly.

The plans provide for the erection of sixty large buildings to be used as offices and warerooms. Only a number of these will be erected at this time.

CHECK UP ONE ANTI-SEMITIC LIBEL

New York (J.T.A.).—An interesting example of how an anti-Semitic libel is started and circulated is furnished by the case reported sometime ago, describing an alleged occurrence at the Harding Memorial Service in Baden-Baden.

The services were held in the local Protestant church. During the services—so the story ran—a disturbance was raised by some of the Jewish participants who demanded the removal of the crucifix from the altar.

The checking up of the story, disclosing the true facts, is to be credited to Dr. Stephen S. Wise, whose brother-in-law, Dr. G. G. Fisch, made the Harding Memorial Address at that service. The facts as revealed by letters from the head of the church of Baden-Baden, and one of the officials of the town are that the clergyman in charge at the time, Vikar Lic. Klaiberman, himself removed the crucifix from the altar because the nature of the services to be held, as represented to him by the chairman of the Memorial Committee, was of a general character. In fact, the Jews present not only did not demand the removal of the crucifix, but never noticed that it had been removed, states the head of the church. Someone, however, noticed the absence of the cross and drew his own deduction therefrom. "Acher and Buhler Bote," a local newspaper, next published an attack on the Protestant community, with respect to the crucifix affair, charging the community with capitulating to the Jews. This article came to the attention of the Church Council. The head of the latter then issued a statement explaining the occurrence which was duly published by "Acher and Buhler Bote."

Another publication carrying the story was the anti-Semitic "Deutsche Zeitung" of Berlin, from which it was reprinted by many other publications.

HOKOAH SCORES SIGNAL VICTORY IN ALEXANDRIA

Alexandria, Egypt (J.T.A.).—The famous Jewish football team of Vienna "Hakoah," has scored another victory. The team started the New Year by beating a picked team in the game played here on New Year's Day. The score was three goals to one.

The Hakoah had already measured its ground against an excellent English team, when it played and won against the "Westham" Football Team
